The duty officer: Hello? This is District Red Cross.

Investigator: Hello! How are you? Are you the Haidian District Organ Donation Workstation of Red Cross in Beijing?

The duty officer: This is the Red Cross of Haidian District. Who's that?

Investigator: Red Cross? I know the Red Cross; it is that Red Cross. Do we also have organ donation here?

The duty officer: Oh, we... are you personally donating organs?

Investigator: Oh, no. I am from Datong Red Cross, and want to ask about it. How do we carry out this work? Because we have not carried out very well, and we haven't done... done well. I want to ask you how it is done regarding organ donation. We want to learn from you.

The duty officer: Oh, now the person in charge is not there, do you want to leave your phone number?

Investigator: Oh, I just want to ask, for general information. Because I... I called Beijing Red Cross. He said that they haven't started yet. Some lower (level) which did (organ transplantation) may have started. He said that city didn't do it. Is that right?

Hello?

The duty officer: Hello! How are you?

Investigator: Hi, hello, hello! Did you hear me?

The duty officer: Yes, please go ahead, the voice is a little far away.

Investigator: Oh, it's a bit far away, because I'm calling from Datong. So I want to ask, that is to say, because we are close to Beijing, and because organ donation at our Red Cross is not very good. As far as our head is concerned, you can ask Beijing, they must do better, and they must do well, because it is the capital, and will definitely do better. So I just want to ask, how the organ donation is carried out, now the donation here is good, right? For organ donation?

The duty officer: How to carry out? ... it is like this... it is like this here...

Investigator: Please go ahead, your voice is too low! Go ahead.

The duty officer: (Whisper with others) It is like this here. The organ donation has a registration form, which can then be filled in directly online.

Investigator: Oh, that is...

The duty officer: (A female voice answered the phone) Hello, hello, hello, hello!

Investigator: How are you? Hello. How are you?

The duty officer: Hi, please go ahead, go ahead.

Investigator: I am from Datong Red Cross, because our organ donation performance is very bad. I don't know how to carry out such work.

Because it has not established... that is... it has been in the preparatory stage, we just opened this year, established such an unit in the Red Cross. Now for specific work, our district is mainly to undertake the propaganda work of organ donation, and other work has not been implemented. If you want to ask this question, I suggest you to contact the Red Cross of the city, because the Red Cross of the city has a newly established agency to do the work.

Investigator: Yes, because when I called the Red Cross of the city, Wang Chaohui's office has not started any work after establishing for six years.

The duty officer: Right.

Investigator: Maybe the area below did better?

The duty officer: In the district, we are doing some propaganda work, and other work has not been carried out. We are working according to the deployment of the city.

Investigator: Oh, just say, you lower level... he said that it may be underway at lower level.

The duty officer: We do this, print some promotional leaflets, and hand them out to people. If anyone comes to consult, we will answer some questions and then guide him to register online. We are doing this kind of work, no any work further.

Investigator: Oh, that is to say... That is to say it is similar to what Wang Chaohui said. So your organ donation has not yet been carried out?

The duty officer: Of course. There is no implementation in the city, and it is even more impossible to carry out in the district-level! We are definitely doing it according to the unified deployment of the city, and there are fewer personnel in our district.

Investigator: Oh, oh, I see.

Investigator: Oh, it has just been approved, so just approved, and no formal work has been carried out.

The duty officer: They have been preparing for it and doing some basic work.

Investigator: Then you said this preparation... preparation work?

The duty officer: We don't know the specific situation in the city. However, there has been no specific implementation of this work in the city. There is no specific development in our district, except for a little propaganda.
