Doctors' Office of Liver Transplantation, at the General Hospital of the Chinese People's Armed Police Forces

Date: June 14, 2016 (Phone number: 86-1057976858)

Summary

In general, a patient could be discharged 20 days after a successful surgery. "We do (liver transplants) every month. Our (surgery) team alone did 6 transplants last month. We have 4 or 5 groups." Recently, as long as you want to do it, you may be able to. "In fast cases, it may be done immediately." "In general, if it is slow, it will only take more than a month."

Phone Investigation Recording

Investigator: Hello, is that the Department of Liver Transplantation, Beijing Armed Police General Hospital, right?

Doctor: Yes, that's right.

Investigator: After the transplantation, in general, how long would the patient stay in the hospital?

Doctor: If the recovery is relatively smooth, it will only take about 20 days.

Investigator: That is, without special circumstances, the patient can leave the hospital in 20 days, right?

Doctor: That's right.

Investigator: Oh...Have you done a lot so far this year?

Doctor: We did it every month. Our (surgery) team alone, we did six transplants last month.

Investigator: Your team? You are divided into teams? How many teams do you have?

Doctor: We have 4 to 5 groups.

Investigator: You said you did six transplants in a month?

Doctor: That's right.

Investigator: Oh, that's a lot. Now is June already, so your team alone did more than 30 transplants?

Doctor: Yeah.

Investigator: Then 4 to 5 teams can add up to be a lot. If I go there, I may not wait in the line for a long time...

Doctor: It is not the issue of a faster-moving queue. Mainly as long as it is suitable for the patient, as long as the patient is eligible for liver transplantation, that is, recently, as long as you want to ...

Investigator: How long do we usually have to wait? Not to mention special cases.

Doctor: In general? Depends on the patient's blood type.

Investigator: Type B

Doctor: Type B should be faster, too. In general, if it is slow, it will only take more than a month.

Investigator: How about in fast cases?

Doctor: In fast cases, after the patient is admitted to the hospital, if a very suitable donor is available, it may be done immediately. It is very likely.

Investigator: Then it depends on the luck, right? See if you can encounter the opportunity.

Doctor: Yes, it depends on the predestined relationship, you understand?

Investigator: You are absolutely right. Need to have some predestined relationship to match with the donor.

Doctor: If you want to learn more about this, you may come to our hospital's clinic, okay?

Investigator: Ok, ok, I won't ask more. I'll go there if I have time. Thank you, goodbye.

Doctor: Ok, goodbye.
