Phone Investigation Recording

Nurse: Hello, this is General Surgery Department.

Investigator: Hello, is that General Surgery Department at the First Hospital of Shanxi Medical University?

Nurse: Yes, you are right.

Investigator: Well, do you do liver transplantation? We have a patient, who has been waiting at Xijing Hospital for a very long time.

Nurse: He may come to our hospital and get onto the waiting list. I think it should be shorter. Although he still needs to wait for liver donors, we should be faster.

Investigator: Have you done a lot of liver transplants this year?

Nurse: No, I need to check it with the director, to find out how to contact him. We have a dedicated team for liver transplants. I need to talk to them

Investigator: How many transplants have you done this year?

Nurse: This is the first. We have done one transplant this year.

Investigator: So you have done only one this year, but the result is good, right?

Nurse: We hired an expert from outside (of our hospital) to do it. Yes, the result is very good.

Investigator: Where is the expert from? He is not in Shaanxi?

Nurse: From Beijing.

Investigator: Oh, an expert from Beijing. (Nurse: Right.) Does that expert also bring the liver source, or you found it by yourself?

Nurse: No. If the liver source were brought by him, the patient would have lined up over there, and he wouldn't come to our hospital. It is precisely because they didn't have liver donors, so that the patient came back and had a surgery here.

Investigator: Oh, so this year, how did you find a donor this year? Was it also the surgeons, who went out to find the donor?

Nurse: What are you talking about?

Investigator: I am talking about the liver sources. Are your surgeons also responsible for looking for liver donors?

Nurse: Liver sources? Yes, you are right.

Investigator: Oh.

Nurse: Finding a local donor is probably faster than other places.

Investigator: Oh, do you still find donors through the judicial system?

Nurse: Not necessarily, there are various aspects, various channels.

Investigator: Oh, various channels. Then for Type B blood type...

Nurse: So let me tell you, wait a moment, I will contact our director. (Investigator: Umm, OK.) I will see what his opinion is. Can you call me 10 minutes later?

(Investigator: OK). Or can you leave your phone number with me?
