Tan Yunshan, Director of Liver Pathology Department of Zhongshan Hospital

Date: February 8, 2015

Summary

On February 8, 2015 a WOIPFG investigator called Tan Yunshan, Director of Liver Pathology Department of Zhongshan Hospital, Fudan University over the phone. Tan Yunshan admitted that they get the organs from the SOURCE and they extracted those organs regardless whether such organs were from Falun Gong practitioners or not.

The following is part of the conversation:

Investigator: Hello, is this Tan Yunshan?

Tan Yunshan: Yes.

Investigator: Would you please tell me if your hospital is still doing liver transplants.

Tan Yunshan: of course, we do.

Investigator: I heard that the organ supplies are controlled by the military. One hospital in Shanghai claimed that they could get organs directly from the sources, and all are the best and freshest organs, no middleman. Such organs must be healthier and have higher survival ratio. Do you also get organs directly from the source?

Tan Yunshan: All livers were acquired from the source. Since we extract the organs ourselves, we can make sure all original data and condition. If we entrust someone else to do it, we won't be able to guarantee this, so we do ourselves to control this. Our hospital gets most of livers like this and we exactly know whether this liver can be transplanted or not. (To be honest with you) comparing with other hospitals, what we do is more standardized. After we bring the organs back to our hospital, we will conduct pathological examinations before transplantation, we need to know whether the stem cells have denatured, whether there is adipose degeneration and necrosis and whether it is matched (with the organ transplantation recipient).

Investigator: So when you get the organs from the source, you must know who is the organ donor, right?

Tan Yunshan: Of course, because we need to do some exams beforehand.

Investigator: I saw from your website that many of them are male, more than 30 year old. That means you should know their genders, and whether they are healthy or not.

Tan Yunshan: Of course, we know.

Investigator: Falun Gong practitioners' organs, I heard, are the healthiest. Can you get from them?

Tan Yunshan: We don't care whether they are Falun Gong practitioners or not. We don't get involved in politics. As doctors, we only care about the donors' liver, and make sure if they meet the transplantation requirements. As long as it meets the requirements, we don't care who you are.

Investigator: You know that Bai Shuzhong, former Director of Health Department of PLA General Logistics Department has admitted that Jiang Zemin had ordered to harvest organs from living Falun Gong practitioners for transplantation. Are all the hospitals doing this under that policy?

Tan Yunshan: Yes, yes.
